

I expect my fair use rights to be protected. The FCC has no business mandating a technology that eliminates my fair use rights on demand from content producers, even if such technology's primary goal is to prevent uncontrolled use of content.

I am a law-abiding consumer who believes that illegal use of others' content should be prevented, investigated and prosecuted. Prevention should not interfere with my legal rights to sample portions of broadcast programs, copy for parody, academic use, or other protected uses, or time shift broadcasts at my leisure.

Do not impose copy-protection technology in digital television receivers. Enforcement of an industry's business model at the cost of individual citizens' personal liberty should NOT be the business of the FCC.

Please do not mandate a technology that assumes all citizens are criminals.
